Comment: Due to the high cost of incarceration, I believe the institutions should be allowed to recoup some costs, and a phone system is one of the few that can accomplish this. Due to security and vandalism reasons, an inmate phone system would also be expensive to maintain, thereby warranting higher charges for calls. I am sure there is also a high rate of non-payment of services related to these collect calls.

I have enough trouble paying my own phone bill on a fixed income. I do not want more of my tax dollars going to support an inmate phone system. Since when is there a "right" to a phone call? What ever happened to writing a letter? That only costs 46 cents.
